

Week 8 Assignment 1: Twelve-Month Argument and Research
Plan English 147

Name: [REDACTED]
Date:.....

Part I: In the Next Few Months
Write Dates Here:.....

Next, Identify one personal, academic, or professional argument opportunity. What passion led you to choose this particular argument opportunity? Why did you decide to place it in this particular section (today through 3 months from now)? How will you approach this opportunity? How might it change the world?

Please respond with rich detail in at least one complete, well-developed, a rich paragraph here:

Parents should teach their children to remain home from school, wear masks, and keep away from others during an epidemic. I placed it here since 2021 starts in three months. This disease has irrevocably changed our lives, which may be hard to explain for first-year students, from online-education households to youngsters. This will significantly impact how youngsters interact with others. Therefore, parents must develop imaginative and engaging ways to support social development at home. If internet education completely replaces schools, parents may finally educate. Many youngsters cannot visit relatives or attend school due to sickness.

Reading List! Locate a book related to the above paragraph. There are no boundaries here regarding the subject matter- have fun and make this a book you REALLY want to read!

Write the Title, Author, and Year Published here: I Love You by Michael Ross, published in 2020

Why does this book excite you? How might it open your eyes to new ideas and actions? Please respond in at least three clear, detailed sentences here:

I assist a 5-year-old first-grader with his online virtual education three times every week. Since he moved to a new section of town and started attending a new school during the outbreak, he