Next, Identify one personal, academic, or professional argument opportunity. What passion led you to choose this particular argument opportunity? Why did you decide to place it in this particular section (today through 3 months from now)? How will you approach this opportunity? How might it change the world?

Please respond with rich detail in at least one full, well-developed, rich paragraph here:

Within this timeframe of 3 months during the beginning of 2021, I will be ending my first set of 8-week courses at Chamberlain. I will be a junior and finishing up my set of two courses persisting of English and Sociology then in the March session I will be starting up Microbiology and Critical Reasoning. To me this is very exciting and a milestone to be proud of. I chose to place this here because it is a time that within these three months so much will be changing constantly for me with school. In May hopefully I will be able to start some nursing courses at Chamberlain due the transfer being more difficult than planned. Switching from in-person courses at Alverno to online at Alverno was trouble enough, but online entirely is all new to me and will continue to be an altering experience these first three months for me. This is going to
