

NR 394 Week 1 Discussion: Diversity in Nursing

Diversity is part of nursing. As you begin this course, answer the below questions:

- Discuss what transcultural nursing means to you.
- Why did you decide to take this course?
- Explain what you would like to learn in the next 8 weeks.
- How do you hope this course will help you in your clinical?

Hello Professor and class,

Research has come a long way since the Florence Nightingale era. Florence was near the beginning of formalized nursing care. There was no nursing history for her to base her care off of. There were no formal education systems teaching nursing. It wasn't like she could open her phone and google a question to find the most up to date research. Today there are many different methods of research. Some common qualitative research methods are ethnography, phenomenology, grounded theory, historic research, and case study research (Cope, 1969).
