

Hello everyone,

This week we learned more about conducting qualitative research. When you are collecting research it's important to analyze and to go back and forth between actions such as the data preparation, interpret the meaning, conduct analysis, and reduce the data. You are constantly comparing new findings to existing findings to support or reject prior conclusions. Unlike quantitative analysis that is completed when all the data is collected (CDC, 2018).