

Week 3 open forum:

I found it helpful to read and learn the process of creating a profile and finding potential NP careers. It was comforting having a rough outline of what to expect upon graduation and certification. Additionally, creating the interventions for improved patient outcomes was engaging and helped solidify how performance measures impact nursing care. Patient interventions will continually be implemented and evaluated throughout my career. I was unaware of how many organizations partake in creating standards and quality assurance programs. It is helpful to know that when looking for a career your goals and motives should be aligned with your employers.