

Knowledge check module 8

QUESTION 1

1. The urine of a neonate is more dilute than adult urine because blood flow preferentially goes to nephrons with short loops.

- True
- False

1 points

QUESTION 2

1. Which of the following characteristics of Impetigo is

- FALSE? Is mildly contagious
- Commonly caused by staphylococci
- class lesions are honey colored
- crusts outbreaks usually begin with
- vesicles

1 points

QUESTION 3

1. Redness and tenderness of skin that becomes widespread, followed by painful blisters, bullae, and sloughing of skin describes which of the following conditions?

- Atopic dermatitis
- Tinea corporis
- Impetigo
- Staphylococcal scalded-skin syndrome

1 points

QUESTION 4

1. An infant with a congenital defect involving a hole in the septum between the two lower chambers of the heart has a_____.

- Atrial septal defect