

Post 1-2 paragraphs identifying one limitation currently applied to the presidency that, if removed, would increase or maximize presidential power. Be sure to:

- Provide a brief description of the limitation you chose.
- Explain how the president would be more powerful if this limitation were removed.
- Explain whether you think the limitation should be removed or remain in place.
- Identify and explore the constitutional role and authority of Congress as well and consider where presidential and congressional authority may or have conflicted.

Answer:

The limitation that I chose is on the ability to declare war. As it stands, only Congress has the power to declare war, which as a result means that the President cannot declare war without the approval of Congress (Cornell Law School, n.d.). But the President can send troops into battle wherever he wants to without an official war declaration (Cornell Law School, n.d.). The president would be more powerful if
